

Here are 5 example paragraphs, each have multiple words and/or phrases that can be changed.

1.

Despite recent protests, sacrificial rituals have been moved to Tuesdays at 9 p.m. Instead of the regular Mondays at 10 p.m. Club leaders insist that the change is actually a very beneficial opportunity for the demon worship community, as it will open up Monday for new activities.

2.

It's believed that former Editor-in-Chief Nikki Fain attacked Nick Klotz early Tuesday morning, during a fitful sleep. Her fist connected with his jaw, startling Klotz awake. Upon waking, Klotz rubbed his sore jaw then quickly awoke his sleeping girlfriend in fear she'd hit him again.

3.

Due to the recent Folgers Instant Coffee scandal, funds can no longer be accessed through the main company account. Board members voted on changing all of the company policies regarding accessing and acquiring funds on Friday, May 22. Starting next Monday, May 31 all employees will be expected to follow the new company rules at all times.

4.

Fun is now outlawed in the entire SNHU campus. It turns out, in fact, that Paul LeBlanc has the ability to outlaw whatever he wants across the entire campus. Including the right for students to speak, play music and have access to any good food. "I hate it," said Daniel Hopler when asked about recent changes.

5.

Due to the fact that space is dangerous, because of the lack of oxygen and freezing temperature. The intergalactic picnic will now be held in the seedy McDonald's just off of the main highway. This recent change raised questions regarding whether or not to order food from the McDonald's itself. However, local authorities have commented reminding students to avoid the food at all costs, in spite of the recently improved smell.